Death by Design
by Rob Urbinati

During a weekend in an English country manor in 1932, a playwright, and his actress wife flee London and head to Cookham after a disastrous opening night. But various guests arrive unexpectedly, each with a long-held secret. When one of the guests is murdered, it's left to Bridgit, the feisty Irish maid with a macabre interest in homicide, to solve the crime. Death by Design is more than an homage to the brilliant wit of Noel Coward and the intricate plotting of Agatha Christie – it's a new classic.

Combine one part murder, two parts mayhem, and season with a hearty dose of clever wit...The result is a smart play. – Maine Sunday Telegram.

THE OUTSIDER
by
Paul Slade Smith

Ned Newley doesn't even want to be governor—he's terrified of public speaking and his poll numbers are impressively bad. To his ever-supportive Chief of Staff, Ned seems destined to fail. But political consultant Arthur Vance sees things differently. Ned might be the worst candidate to ever run for office. Unless the public is looking for the worst candidate to ever run for office. A timely and hilarious comedy that skewers politics and celebrates democracy.

Funny, timely, and dare we say, entirely possible, The Outsider is an insightful, witty satire about modern American politics. – Broadway World.

THE MAN WHO CAME TO DINNER
by Moss Hart
& George S. Kaufman

Sheridan Whiteside – critic, wit, intimate friend of the great and near great – having dined at the home of the Stanleys, slips on their doorstep and breaks his hip. The result is a tumultuous six weeks of confinement as Whiteside turns the Stanley household upside down, forcing everyone in town to cater to his egotistical demands. Meanwhile, Whiteside's secretary has given her notice after falling in love with a local reporter, and Whiteside engages every weapon in his considerable arsenal to keep her in his employ. Subtly funny, slightly raunchy and insidiously clever, with its medley of glittery wackos and endlessly witty repartee, this is one of the funniest plays ever written. Appropriate for all audiences.

I Never Sang for My Father
by
Robert Anderson

This is the story of Gene, a widower, with an elderly mother whom he loves and an 80-year-old father whom he has never loved, hard as he tried. Suddenly his mother dies, and Gene is faced with the responsibility of having his father on his hands just at a time when he wants to remarry and move to California. This moving and perceptive work, by one of our most distinguished playwrights, probes the disquieting alienation that can exist between father and son despite the best intentions of both. Mild Adult Themes

...an absorbing, touching and—when the right time comes—exciting drama... – New York Daily News.

Alone Together
by Lawrence Roman

Remember those wonderful Broadway comedies of the '50s and '60s? This play by the author of Under the Yum Yum Tree is firmly in that tradition. Here we have a middle-aged couple whose children have finally left the nest. They are alone together, but not for long, as all three sons come charging back home after experiencing some hard knocks in the real world. Mom and Dad have quite a time pushing them out of the "nest" again!

One of the funniest shows we've seen in ages! – Herald News.

April 11-May 4

Laura
by
George Sklar & Vera Caspary

When Mark McPherson first falls in love with Laura, he knows he's in love with a phantom, for Laura is dead, and he's in charge of her murder investigation. From her portrait, her letters, her personal effects and his contacts with the three men who loved her, Mark has created an image of a woman tantalizingly alive and real, driving him down a path of mad obsession in the quest to find her killer.

by

He's not just a weirdo — he may be a serial killer! After all, his hygienist just disappeared! Trading their wine glasses for spy glasses, imaginations run wild as the ladies attempt to discover the truth and save their friend in this hilarious off-road adventure!
